Carolina Law

Where Research and Scholarship Flourish

Carolina Law's dynamic faculty have their finger on the pulse of the law. They are asking hard questions, tracking trends, and disrupting myths. They are seeking to solve puzzles that lack easy answers.

Their scholarship is advancing conversations about school segregation, gender violence, sovereign debt litigation, police reform, the First Amendment, poverty law, contract boilerplate, the juvenile justice system, bias in trademark law, LGBTQ+ rights, climate change, advance directives, antiracism education, bankruptcy law, prosecutor elections, the gender gap in academic patenting, and the law of probate, among many others. I am constantly inspired by their work.

As a top-ranked public law school, our mission is to assist our community, our state, and our nation. The scholarship produced by our faculty is one of many important ways in which we advance this mission. I am delighted to share this list of recent faculty publications with you today. I look forward to sharing more in the future.
